Title: Transuranic (TRU) Liquid Waste (TLW) Project

Description of Product or Service Required

The Transuranic (TRU) Liquid Waste (TLW) Project is a congressionally funded line item project to provide TRU liquid waste treatment capability to replace the current operations of an existing Radioactive Liquid Waste Treatment Facility (RLWTF) at Los Alamos National Laboratory (LANL). The new TLW facility will be a Hazard Category 3 nuclear facility. Therefore, this scope will be awarded to an NQA-1 qualified subcontractor, even though the majority of the systems will not require full NQA-1 compliance. The approximately 3,750 square foot facility will be constructed in a congested area at LANL and will be a cast in place concrete structure with two floor levels and three roof levels. The facility will include process equipment such as tanks, piping, a micro filter, a drum evaporator system, and associated support areas such as a drum preparation and storage area, personal protective equipment don and doff room, decontamination room, and telecommunication, electrical, fire riser, and mechanical rooms.

- Current forecasted bid opportunities are subject to change or cancellation due to scope, mission, or funding requirements.
- Some procurements are reserved for small businesses. Note the competition type on the forecast matrix to determine if a procurement has been set aside or is open to fair and reasonable competition.
- LANL reserves the right to change the competition type from Competitive to Set-Aside prior to the release of the Request for Quotation (RFQ).
- If this is a Request for Expression of Interest and capability information is requested with your response, be advised that LANL will not issue your organization a Request for Quotation unless you submit clear and convincing information that your organization has the necessary relevant experience and can fulfill the requirements of the statement of work. If you do not adequately address the required information, and the LANL Buyer does not have information indicating otherwise, the presumption will be that your organization is not a viable competitor. In any case, the LANL Buyer is the final arbiter on who receives an RFQ.
